Pedagogical Support of Extracurricular Activities Aimed at the Development of the Communicative Universal Actions in Teaching Primary School Pupils

I.B. Barakhoeva

Multidisciplinary Gymnasium No. 12, Chita

Key words and phrases: extracurricular activities; collaboration; communicative general learning activities; pedagogical action; primary school pupils; project activities.

Abstract: This article examines the experience of pedagogical support aimed at the development of general and communicative learning activities of primary school pupils. It describes the program of extracurricular activities. Systematizing factor in the author's program is the collaborative creative project work of students, teachers and parents to create a newspaper for family reading.

© И.Б. Барахоева, 2011