

Successful Mutual Relations with Supply Contractors as Factor of Meeting Consumer Requirements to Product Quality

P.S. Poloskov, S.S. Poloskov

Moscow Institute of Physics and Technology, Moscow

Key words and phrases: business process; relations with suppliers; purchases; product quality, competition; consumer requirements; market economy.

Abstract: The paper studies the questions of successful relations with supply contractors as one of the important factor to meet the consumer requirements to product quality. It is shown that in order to keep successful mutual relations it's necessary to develop special procedures for purchases quality control.