Optimization of Neuron Network Structure for Fruit Quality Forecasting

D.V. Drozdov

Michurinsk State Agrarian University, Michurinsk

Abstract: The paper presents the results of the examination of neural network structure; its optimal parameters are selected to reduce instruction mean square error. The produced results of the neural network structure optimization can be used for designing process control system for fruit gathering.