

Introduction of Network System of Business Management in Telecommunication Services

D.L. Khazanova

Tambov State Technical University, Tambov

Key words and phrases: network structure; networking; management system; reengineering; telecommunications.

Abstract: The paper considers the aspects of introduction of network structure in the performance of telecommunication companies. The main problems of reengineering of the management system, the principles of transition to a new organizational structure are covered. The ways of simplification of the process of introduction of a new organizational structure are defined in different areas of business management.