

School Scientific Societies as a Form of Development of Learners' Research Skills

I.B. Marenkova

Tambov State Technical University, Tambov

Key words and phrases: intellectual and creative environment; personal self-realization; professional self-determination; research skills; scientific community of students.

Abstract: The paper studies organizational and pedagogical features of the formation of school scientific societies, solving the primary task of modern education – preparing students for professional intellectual work. Work practices in the given are presented.

© И.Б. Маренкова, 2011