
Theoretical and Methodological Features of the Development of Information Technologies and their Impact on Personality

S.V. Tolokonnikov

Yelets Affiliate of Russian New University, Yelets

Key words and phrases: information technology training; networking technology; personality; students' personal development; teaching method.

Abstract: The article is devoted to theoretical and methodological features of the development of information technologies and their impact on personality. The main stages of personality development have been examined.

© С.В. Толоконников, 2012