

Polyharmonic Phase Method of Temperature Waves to Control Thermal Diffusivity of Solid Isotropic Materials

E.L. Artyukhina, S.V. Mishchenko

Tambov State Technical University, Tambov

Key words and phrases: boundary problems of thermal conductivity; coefficient of thermal diffusivity; phase polyharmonic method; temperature waves.

Abstract: The coefficient of thermal diffusivity on the basis of solution of the boundary problem of heat transfer in semi-bounded sample under control of the thermal properties of materials is calculated by polyharmonic method of temperature waves in the case of setting the temperature on the sample surface, which changes over time as a square wave.
