
Application of Nanostructured Chemisorbents to Remove Carbon Dioxide in Manned Space Objects

S.I. Dvoretzky, N.F. Gladyshev, M.N. Krasnyansky, V.P. Tarov, V.E. Galygin

Tambov State Technical University, Tambov; OAO "Corporation" Roskhimzashchita", Tambov

Key words and phrases: air purification; carbon dioxide; chemisorbent; flexible substrate; nanostructuring; sealed object.

Abstract: The materials on the application of nanostructured chemisorbents to remove carbon dioxide in the manned space objects have been presented. The advantages of applying chemisorbent on flexible substrate to remove carbon dioxide from the air in sealed objects in the absence of power have been shown.
