

Computer Modeling of Time-Optimal Control Problem for a Linear System Based on Power Moment Min-Problem with Even Gaps

A. N. Bugayevskaya

Belgorod State National Research University, Belgorod

Key words and phrases: even gaps; linear system; mathematical modeling; moment problem; optimal control; optimal time; switching times.

Abstract: The time-optimal problem for a linear system which matrix has the spectrum of the special form is considered. This problem is reduced to the power Markov moment min-problem with even gaps. The paper presents an algorithm of program, which gives numerical solving of time-optimal control problem for a linear system.