

Professional Education of Employees of Motor Transport Enterprises

N. V. Penshin, A. A. Titova

Tambov State Technical University, Tambov

Key words and phrases: education; educational policy; motor transport enterprise; personnel potential; retraining; road transport; training and improvement of qualification.

Abstract: The paper studies training and development of lifelong learning for professionals and managers of road transport. The need for quality education and training of a new generation of professionals and workers, capable of managing quality and competitiveness of road transport enterprise has been discussed. Domestic and international experience in the development of road transport has been considered. The block diagram of the educational process has been presented. The system of professional technical education is considered as the first stage of professional training of qualified staff of working professions for road transport industry. There are special functions required in the process of learning and development. The findings of the research have been summarized.